

Trinity College
Dublin

Exchanges with Trinity College Dublin

The Department of Political Science warmly welcomes visiting students who may be attending Trinity College for just one academic year (or one semester). Such students may take courses on offer in the first, second or third years (see the reverse side).

Visiting students are expected to fulfil the same course requirements, in terms of coursework and exams, as Trinity students. Visiting students here for the whole academic year (or for Hilary Term only) should bear in mind, before making arrangements to return home, that the examination season does not finish until late May. All the modules that are normally open to visiting students are 10 ECTS credit modules.

Although all of our modules (with the exception of the BC POL module) are offered for the full year, the modules are open to visiting students who may be only here for the Michaelmas term (Autumn semester) or the Hilary Term (Spring semester). If you are only here for the Michaelmas Term, you can receive 5 ECTS credits and you will be expected to write two essays (for PO1600, you will be expected to complete the mid-term exam in place of the two essays). If you are only here for Hilary Term, to earn the 5 ECTS credits, you will be expected to complete one essay and one half of the annual exam (for PO1600, you will only be required to complete half of the annual exam).

If you come on an exchange organised by the Department of Political Science, you will be eligible to also take modules in other Departments in the College, assuming that you receive permission from the other Departments.

School
of Social Sciences
and Philosophy

Exchanges with Trinity College Dublin

Further details on how to apply to come to Trinity College as a visiting student are available from the university's International Office (international@tcd.ie). Further information about the Department of Political Science is available from http://www.tcd.ie/Political\_Science/index.php Or you can email us polsci@tcd.ie

Modules Open To Visiting Students 2009-2010*

Year

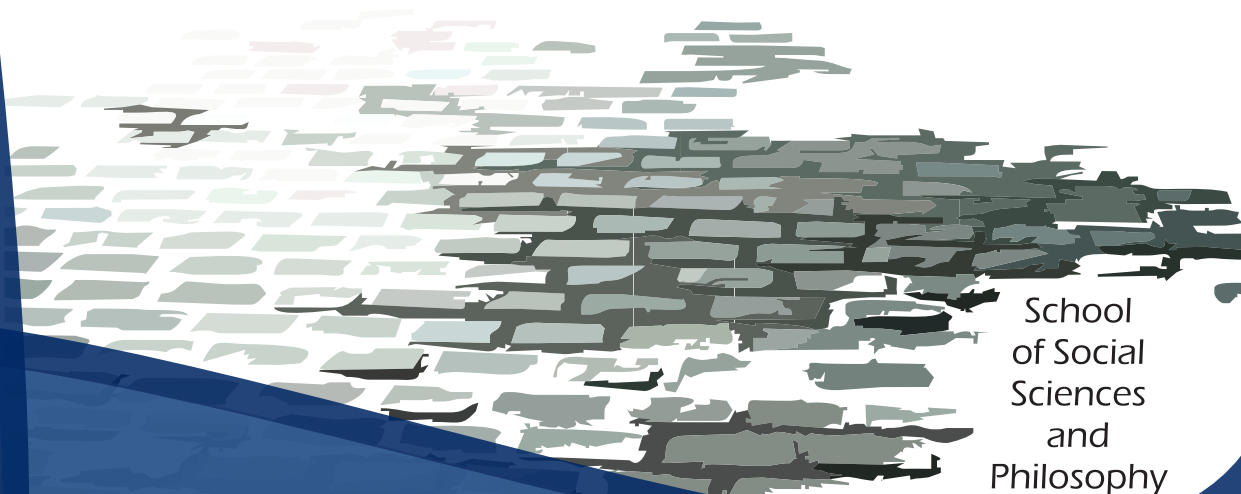

Modules Offered

Junior Freshman (1st year) Introduction to Political Science

Senior Freshman (2nd year) History of Political Thought International Relations
Comparative Politics

Junior Sophister (3rd year) Research Methods for Political Science
Irish Politics
Government and Politics of the USA
Democracy and Development
EU Politics

* Please note that the modules open to visiting students may change

School
of Social Sciences
and Philosophy